Mutuini Market Groundbreaking

Nairobi City County Governor H.E. Sakaja Johnson led the groundbreaking ceremony for the Mutuini Market in Dagoreti South Sub County earlier in the month in a decisive move towards enhancing community infrastructure and fostering economic empowerment, Nairobi City County Governor H.E. Johnson A. Sakaja led the groundbreaking ceremony for the Mutuini Market in Dagoreti South Sub County. With a robust budget of 245 million shillings allocated, the ambitious project will transform the local landscape within the next six months at a cost of Kes.245M.

Mutuini Market stands as a pivotal component among five modern markets slated for construction in the 2023/2024 financial year, a testament to Governor Sakaja's commitment to fulfilling his promise of delivering 20 markets to Nairobi residents within five years.

During his address at the groundbreaking event, Governor Sakaja underscored his dual commitment to infrastructural development and financial support for traders.

"The implementation of the 1.5 billion shilling Biashara Fund, which will be distributed across all 85 wards this year, signifies our dedication to empowering local entrepreneurs," he declared. "I urge area leadership to ensure equitable allocation of spaces at Mutuini market, fostering inclusive economic growth for all." he said.

These modern markets are designed to offer more than just commercial spaces. Equipped with essential amenities such as social halls, daycares, reliable water supply, bus terminals, and advanced safety features including smoke detectors and proper ventilation to prevent fires, they epitomize a holistic approach to community development.

The Governor further addressed the issue of drug and substance abuse by announcing plans to establish a rehabilitation center within Mutuini. Additionally, he directed his administration to implement measures to safeguard residential areas by preventing hazardous businesses like gas refilling stations from operating nearby.

Dagoreti South MP Hon. John Kiarie and Mutuini Ward MCA Hon. Martin Mbugua commended Governor Sakaja's multifaceted initiatives aimed at job creation and community welfare.

The groundbreaking ceremony drew attendance from a diverse array of stakeholders, including MCAs, County Executive Members, County Chief Officers, and Directors from various departments, local administrators, and representatives from the National Government. Their presence underscored the collective commitment to advancing community well-being and prosperity in Nairobi City County.

As the construction of Mutuini Market commences, it symbolizes more than just the physical infrastructure; it represents a beacon of hope for the community, a testament to Governor Sakaja's visionary leadership, and a catalyst for inclusive growth and development in Dagoreti South.

“The implementation of the 1.5 billion shilling Biashara Fund, which will be distributed across all 85 wards this year, signifies our dedication to empowering local entrepreneurs”

History made as Mbagathi Hospital Successfully Performs First-ever Brain Surgery

Nairobi City County's Mbagathi Level 5 Hospital has successfully conducted the first ever brain surgery with the team being led by neurosurgeon Dr Tom Mboya.

Jessy Mubaiya, 57, was diagnosed with chronic subdural haematoma, which resulted from a blunt injury to the head in 1995.

Between 1996 and 1997, he was diagnosed with Renal Tubular Acidosis (RTA), a medical condition that involves an accumulation of acid in the body due to a failure of the kidneys to appropriately acidify the urine.

The persistence of headache for years, after the unsuccessful attempts to seek medical assistance from various health facilities across the country, led to his admission at Mbagathi Hospital on 12th February, 2024.

At Mbagathi, he was examined with the aid of the new CT scan and admitted for craniotomy surgery that lasted for about 2 hours 10mins. He is recuperating at the facility ward awaiting to be discharged.

The facility Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Mr Alexander Irungu informed that with completion of the additional CT scan and CCU, the hospital will be put forth to conduct many such related complications.

"The first ever Neurosurgery at Mbagathi Hospital was done yesterday. The team was led by our Neurosurgeon Dr Tom Mboya. With the installation of CT Scan and the CCU nearing completion, many more of these cases, and even complex ones will be done." said Mbagathi Hospital Chief Executive Officer Alexander Irungu.

Recently, another historical milestone was recorded after the first ever cementless hip surgery that was successfully conducted at the same facility.

The Governor's Transformative Bursary Program

Over 124,100 bright yet underprivileged students in primary schools and Early Childhood Development Education (ECDEs) across 85 wards in Nairobi have been the beneficiaries of Governor Sakaja Johnson's visionary Ksh857 million bursary initiative.

Of this substantial sum, Ksh595 million was distributed to all 85 wards within the county, while an additional Ksh262 million was allocated to the county's executive scholarship program. Notably, each ward experienced an uplift with an extra Ksh1 million, raising the allocation from Ksh6 million to Ksh7 million, a testament to the administration's commitment to equitable distribution.

Governor Sakaja, speaking passionately at the launch of this noble endeavour, revealed that his administration has pledged a total of Sh1.88 billion to support underprivileged students through their secondary education journey. This includes the Sh1.025 billion disbursed in bursaries to 107,907 students in the previous year alone.

Since assuming office, approximately 232,007 students have already reaped the benefits of Governor Sakaja's bursary and scholarship program. Students admitted to national, Extra County, and county boarding secondary schools across Nairobi have been able to pursue their educational aspirations thanks to this initiative.

In his address, Governor Sakaja urged the beneficiaries to seize the opportunity afforded to them and carve out a future through education. He emphasized the significant investment made in the youth of Nairobi, underlining the expectation of tangible results. The governor assured stakeholders of an accountability plan to monitor student performance closely, ensuring optimal returns on the sizable investment.

Beyond alleviating the financial burden on parents, the bursary program has provided students with the freedom to focus on their studies fully. Moreover, it has allowed teachers to identify and nurture talents and skills among students outside the confines of the classroom.

Faith Mutheu, a beneficiary of the bursary program scored 350 marks in the KCPE but her dream of joining the school she was called to, Karatina Girls, was quickly fading as her parents could not raise the school fees. In need to reach as many well-wishers as she could she wrote her story on a blue manila paper and went to town, held it up and asked for help. "My parents are unable to raise the school fees. Help me to realise my dreams of being a doctor," she wrote.

This reached Governor Sakaja Johnson, who invited her into her office, gave her an executive scholarship. Over and above that she is one of 10 learners whose full first term shopping has been done by Sakaja Centre. The shopping includes school uniforms, books, sanitary, beddings among other essentials.

Other beneficiaries Davis Joseph Okwomi from Mukuru Kwa Reuben who had scored K.C.PE 373 marks and got admission to St. Mary's Yala, and Lucy Wangare from Kariobangi North who scored K.C.PE 366 marks got admission to Ngara Girls among many others. The executive scholarship programme covers all four years of high school, Form 1 to Form 4.

Governor Sakaja reiterated his administration's commitment to fulfilling its promise to the residents of Nairobi. The bursaries awarded serve as a testament to the untapped potential residing within Nairobi's youth. He advocated for a holistic evaluation of children, emphasizing the importance of recognizing and developing talents beyond academic metrics.

Governor Sakaja's transformative bursary program is not just about providing financial assistance; it's about unlocking the boundless potential of Nairobi's youth and shaping a brighter future for generations to come.

Transforming Nairobi with the Green Army

Richard Muga., who runs his business in South B and a resident of Eastleigh, applauds the ongoing desilting and clearing of drains, noting the positive impact on residential areas and the central business district. "Since the drains are cleaned periodically and garbage collection is done daily, rainwater can now flow freely. We owe this improvement to the tireless efforts of the Green Army."

Calvin Okoth, a member of the Green Army from Korogocho ward, expresses gratitude for the opportunity to serve the city. "Our primary responsibility revolves around ensuring the city is clean and participating in various environmental conservation activities. Thanks to Governor Sakaja, we can now provide for our families while contributing to the betterment of our community."

Governor Sakaja's commitment to his manifesto promises shines through as the Green Army leads the charge in Nairobi City County's transformation. During his political campaign, Sakaja pledged to treat city residents with dignity and honor, promising to tackle waste management, create job opportunities for youth, and improve water infrastructure across the county.

True to his word, the Nairobi City County Government has provided employment opportunities for 2,500 youths. These individuals, part of the Green Army, engage in various tasks such as street sweeping, vegetation clearing, tree planting, and maintenance of public spaces. Their tireless efforts contribute significantly to keeping the city clean and safe for all residents.

Residents have noticed significant improvements, especially during the rainy season when clogged drains typically lead to flooding and health hazards. Thanks to the efforts of the Green Army, drainage systems are cleared regularly, mitigating flooding and preventing waterborne diseases.

The Nairobi City Environment department has also scaled up garbage collection efforts with the procurement of 27 new tipper trucks and additional skips. These resources enable the Green Army to manage waste effectively, ensuring cleaner streets and neighborhoods.

Governor Sakaja remains resolute in his commitment to holding accountable those who disregard waste management regulations. By restoring restoring Nairobi to its former brilliance, he continues to prioritize the well-being and prosperity of all city residents.

The Green Army stands as a testament to the transformative power of collective action, demonstrating that with determination and dedication, positive change is not only possible but achievable. Under Governor Sakaja's leadership, Nairobi is on a path toward a cleaner, greener, and more sustainable future.

City Hall is the First Green Government Office in Nairobi

City Hall Building receives the EDGE Certification. Excellence in Design for Greater Efficiencies(EDGE) certification goal is to reduce the environmental impact of buildings direct energy consumption, water consumption, and the energy footprint of construction materials.

The certification came during the United Nations climate conference that was recently held in Dubai, where the pivotal role of cities, local governments, and mayors in the fight against climate change was underscored. Nairobi's Governor's office, by achieving EDGE certification, signifies leadership in climate action at the local government level, setting the stage for the city to implement its ambitious Climate Action plan and position itself as the green capital of the world.

To attain EDGE certification, the Governor's office implemented a series of green building strategies, focusing on resource efficiency. The use of energy-efficient building materials, coupled with the installation of efficient interior lighting systems, resulted in a remarkable 28 percent reduction in energy consumption. Additionally, water-efficient fixtures have contributed to a significant 23 percent reduction in water usage within the building.

The EDGE certification, awarded by IFC, recognizes buildings that demonstrate resource savings of at least 20 percent in energy, water, and embodied carbon in materials compared to the local baseline. The Nairobi City Governor's office through its commitment to sustainability has not only met but exceeded these standards, showcasing exemplary practices in green building.

Nairobi County Executives to hit ground in intensified Revenue collection exercise

Governor Sakaja has directed that Cess payments for businesses that operate long term are transitioned to Unified Business Permits with immediate effect. Speaking during a Revenue Mobilisation meeting which was attended by County Executives, Chief Officers, Directors in charge of Revenue collection and Sub County Administration Governor Sakaja said UBP must be embraced by all departments to enhance Revenue collection. Said Governor Sakaja, "Any business that runs consistently at one spot for over six (6) months will be required to acquire a Unified Business Permit (UBP) including in Markets and also those allowed to operate on road reserves.

The annual UBP for such businesses is ultimately a lot cheaper than daily cess that the businesses have been paying which mostly doesn't get to the county and leaves them open to daily harassment. We must quickly embrace technology because it has the potential to increase revenue collection, monitor compliance, and facilitate compliance." added the Governor, "The County's Revenue Outlook is looking good despite last year (FY 2022-2023) having been the best in the five years. I know the team will surpass it, and it will be the highest this year. The digitization of our system and strict cashless policy will ensure our Own source Revenue numbers soar. Technology plays a big part in sealing leakages, efficiency, and above all, revenue increment." The Governor also announced that effective immediately all County Executives and Chief Officers will be involved in revenue collection and mobilisation alongside sub counties. "I have assigned all the County Executives, Chiefs Officers, Sub counties. They will be required to monitor and assist Sub County and ward administrators in revenue Mobilisation exercises. They will also use this opportunity to monitor other on ground projects and help with decision-making on the ground. Nairobi must work!

Reclaiming Dignity: Nairobi City County Resettles 8000 Families Displaced in 2020 Eviction Crisis

In a landmark move towards justice, the Nairobi City County Government, led by Governor Sakaja, has successfully resettled 8000 families who faced eviction from their homes in Kariobangi back in May 2020. The evictions, carried out under the previous administration despite a dusk-to-dawn COVID-19 curfew and a court order to halt the demolitions, left many families displaced and vulnerable.

Governor Sakaja, true to his commitment to uphold justice, engaged in consultative meetings with various stakeholders, including representatives of the affected residents and his cabinet members. A resolution was reached during a recent cabinet meeting to resettle the families on the same land they were displaced from, aiming to restore the dignity they lost during the eviction amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

This strategic move not only addresses the immediate needs of the affected families but also provides an opportunity for them to rebuild their lives. Many lost businesses, schools, churches, and other vital establishments when forcibly displaced from the densely populated informal settlements of Kariobangi North. The resettlement allows them to reclaim their homes and revive the businesses demolished on that fateful day.

Beyond individual families, community-based organizations like the Kariobangi Sewerage Farmers Self-help Group can now resume operations and continue supporting thousands of families in both the settlement and the neighbouring Korogocho, which overlooks the disputed land. The ripple effect of this decision extends beyond housing, reinstating crucial community networks and support systems.

Governor Sakaja, expressing his joy, acknowledged the County Executive Committee of Nairobi for approving the resettlement as promised. This milestone aligns with the governor's commitment to restoring hope, opportunities, and, most importantly, dignity. As the families return to their lands, the City County takes a step forward in rectifying a past injustice, offering a glimmer of hope and a chance for rebuilding lives in the heart of Kariobangi.

This pivotal resettlement not only corrects past injustices but also has far-reaching positive implications for the socio-economic fabric of the affected communities. As families return to their homes and businesses, there is a tangible sense of renewed optimism and a chance to regain lost ground. The revival of local shops, schools, and places of worship will not only foster economic growth but also restore a sense of normalcy to the lives disrupted by the sudden evictions.

As Kariobangi transforms from a symbol of displacement to one of resilience and community empowerment, Governor Sakaja's commitment to justice and the well-being of Nairobi's residents shines as a beacon of hope in urban governance.

Kariobangi Sewerage Farmers Self-help Group treasurer Ms. Wairimu Mwangi expressed her joy and the sentiments of other residents of Kariobangi. "We are very happy with the Governor and President Ruto for keeping their promise which they gave during campaign at a time when most of us were homeless, sick, and demoralized. They promised to return us to our plots which we lost during Covid-19 pandemic. It has taken time but we count it as justice," she said.

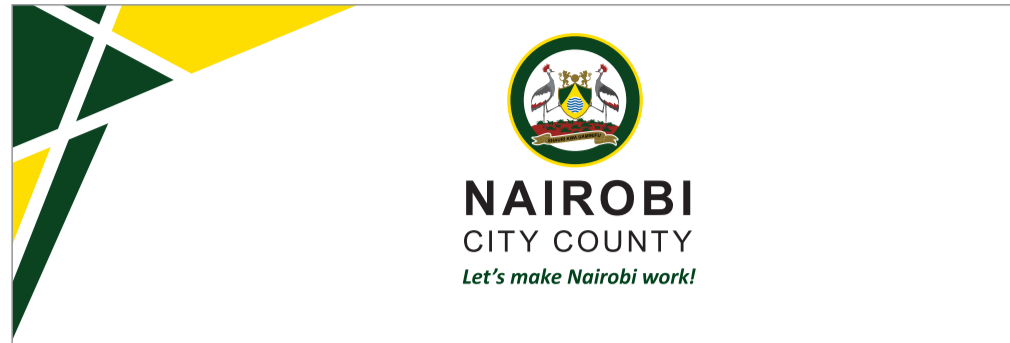

Nairobi City County Government CECM Built Environment and Urban Planning SG Mwangi, who was recently appointed as a member of the Nairobi Land Justice Working Group by Chief Justice Martha Koome, also applauded the County Government for resettling the 8000 families in their lands. "The governor decided to resettle these families not just because it was a

"We are very happy with the Governor and President Ruto for keeping their promise which they gave during campaign at a time when most of us were homeless, sick, and demoralized" promise he made during the campaigns but also because it is the right thing to do, and that is why the Court ordered it to be done. So I'd say we were just following court orders. So during one of our cabinet meetings we resolved to implement this plan as soon as possible to restore the dignity of these people of Kariobangi."

Staff Spotlight: Jane Ndanu, Sub County Administrator, Westlands

Meet Jane Ndanu, the Sub County Administrator for Westlands. Her career journey began in 1999 during the City Council era, driven by an innate desire to serve that she has carried since childhood. Through dedication and hard work, Jane has ascended the ranks, earning promotions and now proudly serving under the visionary leadership of Governor Sakaja A. Johnson.

In addition to her academic qualifications, Jane's exceptional skills in dispute resolution have earned her admiration from colleagues and junior staff. Her ability to resolve conflicts with wisdom has not only impressed but also saved her employer from legal entanglements, handling situations with a calm demeanor that prevents them from escalating to court.

However, Jane faces significant challenges in her role, particularly with illegal dumping and the proliferation of illegal structures, especially over weekends. Despite these setbacks, she remains committed to her duty of keeping the area clean and orderly. Managing five wards—Kitusuru, Karura, Parklands, Kangemi, and Mountain View—she navigates her responsibilities with determination and diligence.

Contrary to popular sentiment, Jane's favorite day is Monday. It's a day she looks forward to as it provides an opportunity for meetings with her staff and colleagues. These gatherings serve as a forum for sharing experiences, discussing challenges, and brainstorming ideas to enhance service delivery to Nairobi residents.

When asked about her approach as a Sub County Administrator, Jane emphasizes her commitment to swift action. She prides herself on handling cases within 24 hours and the more complex ones within 72 hours. Her efficiency and dedication are a testament to the leadership skills instilled in her by Governor Sakaja, for which she is immensely grateful.

Jane Ndanu embodies the spirit of public service, tirelessly working to improve the lives of Nairobi residents. Her unwavering commitment and exemplary leadership make her an invaluable asset to the community and a shining example of dedication in public administration.

Transforming Governance: The Establishment of Boroughs in Nairobi City Council

NEWLY PROPOSED SIX BOROUGHS

PROPOSED BOROUGHS HEADQUARTERS

- WESTERN BOROUGH - Kawangware/ Waruku & service center at City Park
- NORTHERN BOROUGH - Gatharaini
- CENTRAL BOROUGH - Shauri Moyo/ Gikomba
- SOUTHERN BOROUGH - Joseph Kangethe
- EASTERN BOROUGH - Mama Lucy/ DCC
- SOUTH EASTERN - Makadara

Nairobi City County is in the process of creating six boroughs in a strategic move aimed at decentralizing services and bringing governance closer to the people. Defined as administrative divisions, these boroughs represent a significant shift towards enhancing service provision and alleviating congestion at City Hall.

This initiative is a direct reflection of Governor Johnson Sakaja's manifesto, which prioritizes the accessibility of services to residents. Initially conceived as five administrative units, the decision to add an additional borough came after a Technical Committee Taskforce on the establishment of boroughs recommended expansion following successful public participation in November 2023.

Each borough will be overseen by a borough manager tasked with the day-to-day implementation of activities and service delivery. Additionally, a committee comprising neighbourhood associations and representatives from various sectors will ensure transparent governance and resident participation in planning and project implementation.

The boroughs will play a crucial role in providing essential services such as water and health, focusing on projects that prioritize the welfare of the people. They will be organized into clusters of three or more Sub-Counties, ensuring efficient administration and targeted service delivery.

Each borough will have of a cluster of three or more Sub-Counties. The six boroughs are as follows:

- Northern Borough: Kasarani, Ruaraka, and Roysambu Sub-Counties

- Southern Borough: Kibra and Lang'ata Sub-Counties
- Central Borough: Starehe, Mathare, and Kamukunji Sub-Counties
- Eastern Borough: Embakasi West, Embakasi Central, and Embakasi North Sub-Counties
- South Eastern Borough: Embakasi South, Embakasi East, and Makandara Sub-Counties
- Western Borough: Westlands, Dagoretti South, and Dagoretti North Sub-Counties

Each borough will have its headquarters located within its jurisdiction, allowing city managers to address the specific needs of every part of the city effectively.

The establishment of boroughs marks a significant step towards more inclusive and responsive governance in Nairobi City County, fostering community engagement and ensuring that services are tailored to meet the diverse needs of residents across the city.
